Evan:

Not sure who is really coordinating nominees for this program. but I suppose it's [redacted] I believe [redacted] would be a good candidate for the program. He at least is strongly interested (see attached). I suggest we send this on to [redacted] for his consideration.

MEMORANDUM FOR: D/FBIS

FROM: DC/Production Group

SUBJECT: Officer-in-Residence Program

25X1 As I mentioned to you earlier, I am interested in exploring the possibility of my participating in the ref program. At the moment, this interest is largely theoretical in that the program exists only in the barest of outlines. I talked earlier this week with [ ] who apparently drafted the DDA's memo on the subject and is in charge of developing the program. He confirmed that for now he is working only with a basic concept and an expression of interest on the part of the named schools.

My particular interest would be in an academically oriented program at either the University of Texas or Clemson University. I am convinced that a valid academic contribution could be made within the context of either the history or political science departments or in a broader, multidisciplinary curriculum such as a "national security" studies program. In reading the DDA's memo, I notice that no mention is made of the proposed tour of duty for these positions. Although the recruiting and representational functions might well lend themselves to one-year tours, I doubt that a genuine academic contribution could be made in less than two years. Considerable personal preparation time would be needed before most of us would be ready with well-researched presentations.

From a strictly personal standpoint, I believe I am well suited by temperament and training to represent the Agency both from a recruiting standpoint and in an academic atmosphere. My basic work experience, from JOT days through five overseas tours, has brought me into contact with many elements of the Agency, frequently in a close working relationship. Beyond that, I have been given the opportunity to acquire a broader knowledge of CIA activities through tours with the IG Staff and as a Senior Duty Officer with the Operations Center. Even counting the 1980-1981 stint at the academically rigorous Naval War College, my academic credentials are somewhat dated but nonetheless relatively sound: three years of graduate work in Russian history at the University of North Carolina. That I can do original research work is best illustrated by the selection (after my departure) of my paper "EMCON Tactics in Wartime (SECRET)" for presentation at the Chief of Naval Operations' 1981 Tactical Symposium.

25X1 I would appreciate your support in my candidacy for the Officer-in-Residence Program.
